TREVOSE, Sept. 11—A blaze of color and a series of exquisite perfumes from natural blooms greeted the throng of visitors who attended the first day of the two-day session of the 15th annual Fall Flower Show of the Trevose Horticultural Society opening in the Community House here, yesterday afternoon.

Many of the exhibits in the 77 classes brought exclamations of pleasure from the visitors who viewed the special arrangements of dahlias, asters, snapdragons, roses, and other flowers. The community house very appropriately held the displays which are expected to attract still larger crowds today, the final day for the show. The community house will be open until 10 o'clock this evening.

Premiums consisted of blue, red, and yellow ribbons, the blue ribbon being a first prize. Four special sweepstakes prizes are also to be awarded.

Burlington Man Invents Eel Holder

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—The National Inventors' Congress had a new pride and joy today—the non-slip eel holder.

It's a tubular device with a flared end like a trombone. You catch Mr. Eel on a line, thread the line through the tube and yank the slippery one into it. There you have him—untouched by the human hand—and it's a simple matter to deposit him in the fish basket.

This "gigantic idea" slipped into the mind of George H. Tillinghast, of Burlington, N. J., after a lot of eels slipped out of his hands, the congress explained.

Student Enrollment Is 1037 at Doylestown

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 11—With a total enrollment of 1037 students, full time classes got underway in the Doylestown Schools Thursday morning. Supervising Principal J. L. Halderman announced.

Because of quite a number of late registrations, which are due to students enrolling after school begins and the moving in of others, it is believed that the total enrollment will reach 1050.

The first grade, with an enrollment of 66 boys and girls, is an indication that Doylestown's beginning school population is not waning. This year's enrollment is one of the largest first-grade enrollments in years.

Although there are only eight boys and girls enrolled in Miss Amy F. Bard's department, it is expected that this number will be increased by the addition of several more after classes are fully organized.

The combined enrollment for the Junior High School, which includes grades seven, eight and nine, is 296. Of this number, 76 are in the seventh grade, 69 in the eighth, and 151 in the ninth grade, or first year high school.

SPREADING THE POISON

(On City Derrick, August 21, 1937)

This week The Derrick received by registered mail a volume of 376 pages, entitled "The National Revolutionary Party in Mexico and the Six-Year Plan." The work was prepared by Gilberto Bosques, member of the Mexican chamber of deputies in the national congress and of the national executive committee of the National Revolutionary party. He is also secretary of the press and propaganda department. The purpose of his department is to sell the National Revolutionary party in Mexico to the people of the United States through the use of American newspapers.

The new Mexican party is modeled on the Russian system and founded on the same premise—uplift of the masses. It is practically the same party which came into control of Spain a few years ago and which the rebel movement there is waging a determined war to extirpate root and branch.

It is a party which brooks orders from no authority but that of its masters. It is jealous of the authority of the church, and in this aim sets out to destroy religion. In certain Mexican states school children of pious parents are taught to hate God and to hold in contempt anything which pertains to the Deity. It has no respect for private property. Under the guise of sharing possessions with the masses, it takes what it wants. It confiscates largely through taxation.

Its technique is the same as that which has taken over the governments of several European countries, first by organizing the workers into unions and placing behind these unions the power of the government. Between the exactions of these unions and the taxing power of the state, the American oil industry is being driven out of the rich fields of Mexico. There is no security for private property.

The system is collectivism or communism. They are exchangeable terms. The principal engine of this party is the dissemination of public information. This means a controlled press, radio, motion pictures or any other means of news distribution. The people are fed only what the party which has seized power wants them to have. This is absolutism carried to the nth degree, except that instead of its being a personal absolutism like those of Germany, Italy and other fascist countries this is absolute rule by party instead of an individual. It is the Russian plan.

The world is now commencing to realize the extent of the force released by the Russian revolution. Its tentacles have spread. Before that it was sporadic, contenting itself with the assassination of rulers and the use of physical force. This is the modern form of the old nihilism which sent us Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, its Sacchos and Vanzettis, which caused the Haymarket riot in Chicago and the Preparedness parade bombing in San Francisco, and which gave us the I. W. W. and its terrorism.

This is the New Deal in Mexico as it was the New Deal in Spain, as fascism is the New Deal in Italy and Germany, as socialism is the New Deal in France and communism the New Deal in Russia. Hitler and Mussolini were practicing communism before they became dictators.

This world wide movement whether fascist or communist will preach democracy on one hand and seek to destroy it on the other. Its passion is for power. It comes upon us like a thief in the night. Already it has wormed its way into our colleges and high schools.

In some of our universities the profession of any religion is held in profound contempt.

The discharge of a professor in one of the largest colleges in Pennsylvania for teaching such doctrines was made a political issue. The sympathies of our governor were enlisted in the professor's behalf and for a time the state appropriation for that seat of learning was seriously jeopardized.

The Workers of the World, a communistic organization which has gained a foothold in this country, took possession of the Pennsylvania senate chamber during one special session, made an unholy mess of that part of the beautiful capitol, brandished clubs, shouted derisive epithets at the members while that body was in session, and demanded more and more millions for so-called relief. They were not molested by the state police who were standing by and they were fed at the expense of the taxpaying public.

OPPOSES TAMPERING WITH THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

Senator James J. Davis Delivers Two Addresses in Bucks County

LANGHORNE, LAHASKA

Pennsylvania's senior United States Senator, James J. Davis, yesterday delivered two addresses in Bucks County, one at the historic Buckingham Friends' Meeting House at Lahaska, where he addressed 150 members of the Bucks County League of Women Voters and another last night at Langhorne where he was the guest of honor at a constitution-dinner given at the Bucks County Country Club by Langhorne-Middletown High School Alumni Association.

Before the League of Women Voters, Senator Davis discussed pertinent labor legislation and answered questions that were presented to him.

Throughout his very informative talk he made it plain that he was 100 percent against the sit-down strikes, looked upon as "illegal and Communistic" and expressed the opinion that America would have very little trouble with such a movement in the future because it was not American. He also deplored the "spoils system" and staunchly defended the merit system in government.

Speaking of the Constitution of the United States he emphatically declared: "I am opposed 100 percent, in any way to tampering with the Constitution other than by the methods provided in that document."

Senator Davis asked his listeners to think for a minute what constitutes the Constitution of Germany, Italy and Russia, and then named the well known dictators of those countries.

"I have never met a man big enough to become dictator of America," he declared, "and there never will be a dictator in our country as long as the laws that are laws are properly enforced. We are living today under the document that is the greatest ever written by man. Other countries have copied it but have failed because law officers have failed to enforce the laws. It is different here in the United States."

"Let us keep our eyes and minds on the ideals of the fathers of the Constitution of the United States of America. Let us have the spirit of the founding fathers of this country." This was the advice of Senator Davis, as he addressed members and friends of the Langhorne-Middletown high school alumni association at a celebration marking the 150th anniversary of the signing of the constitution last evening.

Alva Johnson, vice-president of the alumni association had the honor of introducing Senator Davis.

Referring to the United States Constitution as "the greatest document ever penned by man," Senator Davis then continued his address by paying high tribute to the men who wrote the historical document, told of the powers at work to shake the foundations of the Constitution and thus of this great nation, then urged that all be alert to Continued On Page Two

ADVOCATE A NEW ROAD, BRISTOL TO THE COUNTY SEAT

WANT SAFER HIGHWAY

Inaugurate Movement in The County To Work For The Desired Improvement

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 11—A better and safer highway between Bristol and the county seat was advocated last night at a meeting of a group of representative citizens from the various communities in the territory affected. The meeting was sponsored by the Good Roads Committee of the Bucks County Bankers' Association, at whose suggestion the gathering was held. The group assembled at the Doylestown Inn and after partaking of dinner entered into a discussion of the proper method of procedure, in order that the object might be obtained.

H. H. Reinhart, Quakertown, called the meeting to order, and then presented Walter K. Terry, Perkasie, who acted as chairman. Mr. Terry outlined the reason for the group assembling and stated that "some people think that bankers should not be interested in the kind or character of roads there are in the community, but we have a different opinion and believe that interest in better highways is for the benefit of our customers and the advancement of the interests of the general public."

It was stated by the chairman that it is the consensus of opinion of Good Roads Committee of the Bankers' Association that there should be a better and safer highway connecting Bristol, in the southern end of Bucks County, with the concrete highway ending near Dublin, above Doylestown. If a better roadway was constructed between the points mentioned then there would be a safe and improved roadway extending across Bucks County, because the advocated link would connect with the recently constructed roadway leading to Quakertown.

Expressions of opinion were voiced by those present and all were of one accord that something should be done to have a better and safer highway in the area mentioned.

Representatives of the Keystone Automobile Club were present and their co-operation solicited. The opinion that the road advocated should be of concrete predominated and it was decided to have the Good Roads Committee of the Bankers' Association contact the State Highway Department and Bucks County Commissioners, for the purpose of ascertaining what plans, if any, are in prospect for a better and safer highway connecting Bristol with Doylestown.

It was suggested that the roadway should extend from Kulp's Corner, seven miles north of Doylestown, to Bristol. This would provide a better roadway for those residing in the area centering at Newtown, Langhorne and intermediate points. The importance of such a highway was stressed and it was brought out by those discussing the subject that there is heavy travel over the existing road, despite its twists, turns, dangerous grades and narrowness.

The importance of a safe highway extending from a county seat to populated centers was stressed and those at the meeting pledged themselves to work for the accomplishment of such an object.

The condition of the present highway between Bristol, the largest borough in Bucks County, and Doylestown, the county seat of the county, is "deplorable" and "dangerous." Special emphasis was given to that portion of the roadway between Bristol and Langhorne and from Langhorne to Newtown. The roadway, one of the main arteries of travel across the county, is full of bumps, numerous Continued On Page Three

BACK TO THE OLD GRIND

Labor Day traditionally ends the American vacation season, ends it in a welter of blood, in fact, as thousands are killed or maimed under the wheels of the craziest traffic of the year.

So if you didn't have a vacation, chances are you're not going to have any and you might as well put your nose to the grindstone too, alongside those of the returned vacationists, and start turning the handle. In the Northern part of the nation Summer is ended, and the excuse that it is too hot to engage in more than half-hearted endeavors has lost its force. There may still be hot days, of course, but their total number will be small.

The returning of the vacationists, the passing of Labor Day, the opening of the schools for another term, are harbingers of the year's busiest season which annually reaches its climax in a grand orgy of Christmas business. Well, we've broken the ice, although we didn't mean to mention Christmas for at least another week or two.

With Christmas shopping a scant three months away, is it any wonder that the average man is buckling into the harness as he has not done for months. Here he intended all the time to be much better off at the end of 1937 than he was at its beginning, and with the year almost gone he has nothing to show for his good resolution except what satisfaction he can garner from the knowledge that he paid more taxes this year than ever before.

We hadn't intended to mention taxes again for several weeks, but now that it's been done who are we to apologize? Taxes are the vilest nuisance extant, and were invented by slimy parasites, passing under the alias of "patronage," who live off the labor of other people and refuse to work.

BIGGEST NICKES WORTH

Daily newspapers in San Francisco and Oakland, California, have boosted rates to subscribers fifteen cents a month. The price of evening newspapers, heretofore three cents, will be raised to five cents for street sales.

Publishers announced the increases were necessary because of higher taxes and rising labor and material costs.

The two-cent newspaper, still Before the World war many now found in some sections, is doomed, selling for two cents sold for one cent. But there were no taxes on payrolls then, in fact the term "social security" had not been coined. People then were interested in getting goods at a fair price and taxes were anathema to them.

The cost of publishing a daily was twenty-five years ago, due to constantly increasing costs and also to a constantly improving product. At a nickel a copy, the modern American newspaper is the greatest bargain in the world today.

A druggist's convention hails the return of the pharmacy that deals mainly in drugs. Still, it will be inconvenient for the rest of us, finding another place that sharpens lawn mowers.

It costs the owner of Idaho's sinking farm $500 a month to keep sightseers from killing themselves. Later on, perhaps, he will charge an admission and have accident policies to sell.

The ideal income isn't a definite figure, but one to equal the neighbor's.

Opposes Tampering With The U. S. Constitution

the dangers lurking to deprive Americans of their freedom, privileges and present form of government.

Following his introduction the senator expressed appreciation of the fact that he was presented to the audience by a member of the negro race, "a race that has received more benefits under this document than any race has ever received on the face of the globe."

That the constitution has been a great part of his life was well brought out by the senator who told of how respect for the document and the founders of this country was instilled in his mind as a boy.

The belief of many that the long fight over the Supreme Court issue centered the minds of the people on the Constitution was mentioned. "I believe the spirit of the patriots who formulated the constitution will always arise in the time of emergency to save this great document of ours," continued the honored guest. One piece of advice offered to the fathers present was to read the Constitution with their sons. "My father always said that the language of the constitution is the language of the Bible, and that the men who wrote it were Christians. So we have this document—the prize document of the governments of the world. It is not only the most wonderful document struck off by man, but it permits a forward-moving history of adjustment under it."

Turning thoughts to unrest he added: "We have nothing to gain by bloodshed and mob rule. It doesn't get us anywhere. We have an orderly way to change things. Sit-down strikes were brought about by men who have no sympathy with this kind of government that we have here. And they are trying to bore from within."

Another speaker was the honorable Thomas B. Stockham, Pennsylvania assemblyman, and member of the state constitution celebration committee.

Dinner was served at 6:30, the menu including: Apricot nectar, cream of celery soup, Delmonico steak, French fried potatoes, peas and carrots, rolls, butter, tomato salad with French dressing, ice cream, coffee, mints.

Favors were small American flags.

Dancing followed the evening program, a 10-piece orchestra providing the music.

Apostles of this new thought have wormed their way into the inner councils of our national and state governments. They have laid their impress on our legislation. Our constitution is held in contempt. Patriotism is frowned down. The national flag is seldom displayed.

To bring this thought into line with the New Deal in this country the orderly course of constitutional amendment is held to be too slow and the device of packing the Supreme court with men willing to validate laws which will give it more power to tax and regiment the people was resorted to but failed. Let no one think this failure is permanent. The attempt will be renewed. Only the death of Senator Robinson prevented its accomplishment this time.

The well spring of this movement is lust for power. This is one of human nature's chief passions. Its implements are class hatred, mob psychology and the organization of huge voting groups under the impetus of mass greed and ignorance.

Designing politicians of all parties, perceiving the opportunity of private exploitation, attach themselves to these movements like leeches. The influence of the greatest corporation or the richest group in the land is puny alongside that of the treasury of the United States or the power to tax.

In this country the growth of propaganda has been phenomenal. The government is in control of radio and can censor its utterances. Highly paid press agents are attached to every governmental bureau and department. Here also the C. I. O., which has set out to control the ten or fifteen million industrial workers of the United States in the interest of the New Deal, is now seeking to organize the writers and editors of the newspapers into one of its units.

Under the NRA, which was unanimously outlawed by the Supreme court, the freedom of the press was seriously threatened, and when an exception was demanded by the publishers it was grudgingly given.

The farmers are being drugged with government checks. Labor has been drugged with the power to organize, to picket, to stage sit-down strikes and to satisfy any demand it may choose to make on pain of destroying its employers. It ignores the decrees of the courts. From the millions it gathers out of the sweat of its workers it gives half a million to the New Deal campaign fund. In this way it buys the political power to prey.

During the last five years something like ten billions of dollars has been spent on WPA, NYA, CCC and on various other alphabetical abominations. Unemployment relief has become a gigantic racket.

On the plea of benefiting the public but actually for the purpose of destroying private investments hundreds of millions are being spent on vast power projects.

Amounts which would build palatial homes are being spent on settlement projects to house workers.

To enable voting groups to raise prices on the consumers millions of pigs have been destroyed and millions of acres of growing crops have been plowed under.

Spending has become a perfect saturnalia.

These foisted on the people as emergency measures to cure a depression are to be continued as permanent agencies. They are to be continued because they confer unlimited power on government, on those who control it and their political disciples.

Day by day in every way this power is becoming more firmly entrenched. It is now so buttressed by the vast spending of public funds that any other agency or political party is powerless to prevail against it. And such it will remain until the deluge comes.

A cursory reading of this Mexican volume shows that the plan of the National Revolutionary party in Mexico is the New Deal in the United States, even down to the use of Rooseveltian phrases.

What more is needed to draw an analogy between the New Deal in the United States and the New Deal in Mexico, Russia, Spain, Italy, France and Germany? How long will America stand for it?

The question was then asked by Senator Davis: "Who's the constitution of the United States?" then came his own answer "One hundred and twenty odd million people." Comparing this to other countries he asked in turn "Who is the constitution in Russia? In Germany? In Italy?" and gave reply by mentioning the names of Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini. "How would you like to have one man in Washington in whom all the power was vested?" "Think of the power the founding fathers gave you in the Constitution! Oh, if we could just get this thought home—to think in terms of the power that's in all the people!"

The Supreme Court was mentioned as the guardian of the effectiveness of the Constitution. "The supreme court is the protector of our rights. The court has not always upheld all measures I voted for, but I did not damn it. It is my protector. . . . When we heard the court measure was downed Hiram Johnson, who sat near me said fervently 'Glory be to God, Glory in the highest' and I said 'Amen.' You would think we were at a Baptist or Methodist camp meeting."

After citing presentation of a program at the Cleveland Exposition, in which the theme was that "It can't happen here," referring to the powers that be in Italy, Germany and Russia, Senator Davis had this to say: "We have got to be ready to take care of ourselves. We must believe in preparedness. A wise thing for us to pursue is not to get messed up in China. But remember anything might happen here unless we are prepared. Anything might happen here unless we go out with the same spirit as the men had who signed our Constitution. We must determine that it can't and must not happen here. Let us keep our eyes and minds on the ideals of the fathers of the Constitution. Let us have the spirit of the founding fathers of this country."

The invocation was made by the Rev. Walter Humphrey, pastor of Langhorne M. E. Church; with greetings being brought by William J. Forbes, president of the alumni association; and by Hugh Boyd, also a member of the association.

Another speaker was the honorable Thomas B. Stockham, Pennsylvania assemblyman, and member of the state constitution celebration committee.

Dinner was served at 6:30, the menu including: Apricot nectar, cream of celery soup, Delmonico steak, French fried potatoes, peas and carrots, rolls, butter, tomato salad with French dressing, ice cream, coffee, mints.

dangerous grades over small streams, and sharp curves, which make driving on it a real danger.

An improved wider highway, with the curves and grades eliminated, would not only make travel safer, but would tend to development of the territory and the adjacent area.

Attention was called to the fine concrete highway leading from Quakertown to near Dublin, and the opinion was voiced that if such a roadway could be continued down to Bristol, its construction would mark a great development in Bucks County.

BRISTOL BOWLERS TO ROLL FIRST GAMES ON MONDAY

By Louis Tomlinson

The Bristol Bowling Association, larger and more unified than ever before, will get away to a fast start as it opens its 1937-38 campaign at the Recreation Center on Monday night. The Association this year is made up of four distinct leagues ranging from some of the best bowlers in this area right down to many players who will throw their first ball down the local alleys, as a member of any team and of the league. And, too, the leagues have all been balanced to meet each team in the league as evenly as possible. This is to prevent a runaway of the race for the title in any of the leagues and at the same time to give those teams with little or no material a chance to get somewhere in the standings.

REIMER NOT SO VERY OPTIMISTIC THIS SEASON

By Louis Tomlinson

BENSLEM, Sept. 11—George Reimer started his sixth year as head coach and athletic director at Bensalem High School when he called the team out for the initial practice session of the season on September 1. Each year since he has been here he has built up better Bensalem athletic teams, but this year there may be a decline instead of increasing success—at least in football.

Last year Bensalem enjoyed the most successful season ever in football under Reimer, winning seven and dropping only two out of nine contests in 1936. This year, however, Reimer expects little more than a third of the games in the win column. A 500 season or better would be considered a most successful campaign to him after looking over his prospects for the squad for this season. And he isn't being pessimistic in the least when he says that, for who could expect more with the material he has and the schedule his team is facing this season?

Only a squad of about 15 or 18 men reported for the initial practice last week but gradually it is increasing and now has reached approximately 36 but Reimer still expects more before the end of next week when fall sessions will be in full swing at Bensalem.

Of the boys who reported, only five were letter men last year, one of which was a substitute back. The five include Hal Robinson, Jack Scarborough, Vic Swadis, Francis Borman and Alvin Marshall. Robinson was All-County fullback last year and last year he will again be the nucleus of the team again this season. He was elected captain of the squad this year and he is also looked upon to do most of the punting and passing.

Scarborough was a substitute halfback last year but is expected to fill in at quarterback this fall. Swadis, too, may be shifted from his tackle post to take over one of the wing positions. Borman and Marshall are a tackle and guard respectively, and will be counted on to open most of the holes for the speedy Bensalem backs. Another speedy Bensalem back, another boy, John Chapman, was a varsity center at Langhorne last fall but has returned to Bensalem and no doubt will receive the call over all other candidates for that position.

Those who were lost to the team through graduation are: Bruce "Doc" McKenzie, Bob Lange, and Captain Joe Wilk, all backs. This means that Coach Reimer must look to most of the J. V. squad for new material among the backs. The same is true of the line with such varsity boys as Tom Adams, an end; Kim Faust, a guard; Charlie Carter, All-County tackle; Charles Abbott, center; Bill Jungmann, end; Jim Robinson, tackle; and Joe Bound, an end and tackle, all having graduated last June. Another back missing through graduation is Herman Frederick. Adams and Wilk placed on the All-County second team last year.

Although the squad which Reimer now has working out daily is heavy, averaging about 160 or 165, it is very inexperienced. Most of the boys are from the J. V. squad and many have never played football under supervision.

Out of these, however, are a few who appear to be somewhat promising and upon whom Reimer may look to for substitutions and count upon for active service. These include Bob Scarborough, Bob Whyte, George Strickland and Art Hill in the backfield, and Norman Tettemer, Bill Getz, Joe and Charles Devine, and Charles Bauer, all linemen. Of the backs, all are freshmen except Whyte. Bauer is the fastest man on the team, tipping the scales at about 220, but he lacks experience. Walt Cunningham, a back, and Bob McGovern, a center, are also up from the J. V. squad this year.

Concerning the team so far, Reimer stated: "They are weak now, but barring injury they may come through later in the season. We just hope for an even break."

Just Before the Battle

policy. Mr. Eccles insisted that now it had become vital to balance the budget and that continued borrowings were dangerous.

THIS IS WHAT the critics of the Roosevelt policy had been saying for three years, but when Mr. Roosevelt himself and his chief financial adviser said it, the significance was very great. It seemed that at last a halt was to be called on the wild pouring out of Government money, that the Administration was "all set" for a genuine effort to recover control of its finances and restore national solvency. Such, at any rate, was its avowed purpose. But did it do anything to promote that purpose except talk? Did it take a step in that direction? Did it attempt to curtail in any direction? The answer is "NO."

ON THE CONTRARY, the two concrete propositions which would have saved an immense amount of money and actually balanced the budget had they gone through—were both opposed by Mr. Roosevelt, beaten on the floor of the Senate by Administration leaders under orders from the White House. That is a matter of record. One proposal was to reduce the relief appropriation asked by Mr. Hopkins from a billion and a half to a billion dollars for the year. The other was to take a flat ten percent out of all appropriations for all departments. Congress was willing and anxious to do both these things. They were proposed not by enemies of the New Deal but by friends of the President, Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, was behind one; the Vice-President behind the other. Congress wanted to do both. Congress was anxious to economize in a big way.

BUT THE PRESIDENT would not let it. Pressure from the Mayors' lobby was too great on one hand and pressure from the departments too great on the other. Both proposals were killed and with them went all hope of an approximate balance this year, or next year, or the year after that. In the seven months that have intervened since his last economy declaration the number of civilian employees on the Federal pay roll has been increased from $31,000 to $45,000 and there will be a further increase by the end of this month. In the same seven months the national debt has increased from around $35,000,000,000 to over $37,000,000,000, the peak for all time—ten billion greater than at the time of the armistice and sixteen billion more than when Mr. Roosevelt became President.

DESPITE great increase in revenues, when the bonus payment of two billion is discounted, it is found that the deficit for the past fiscal year is a billion more than for the year before. So far as the future is concerned, so far as the present fiscal year is concerned—the one in which Mr. Roosevelt promised us an "actual" balance would be achieved and which began on June 30—the prospects can be judged by the following figures: For the first forty-four days—from July 1 to August 13, inclusive—

Expenditures .....$954,805,183.94
Receipts ..... 675,375,562.55
Deficits ..... 279,429,621.39

The plain fact is that while revenues have been vastly enhanced by increased taxes and better business, expenditures have more than kept pace with income. More money is being spent in every department than before and although Mr. Roosevelt is talking economy again, urging Government agencies to make a voluntary reduction in spending and holding out hopes that by withholding funds he will be able to achieve a better proportion between outgo and income, he has done and said all that before and nothing real has come of it except high expenditures and a heavy debt.

IT IS TRUE that Government borrowing has ceased and that the debt is to be "stabilized" at its present $37,000,000,000 figure. But that is only because the proceeds of the Social Security tax now beginning to flow into the Treasury are being used for current expenses. The law requires these funds be invested in Government securities. Thus the Government, instead of borrowing from the banks or the people is borrowing from itself. The ease with which this can be done is a terrific temptation to make free with what is essentially a trust fund. Soon or late the law which permits this sort of thing will have to be changed. It does not ameliorate the Treasury's situation. It does not obviate the dangers of a deficit. It is, in fact, more dangerous because it enables the Treasury to escape facing the realities of its situation, camouflages the facts and enables it to carry on for an indefinite period.

IN OTHER words, it postpones the smash—and it makes it considerably more difficult for the people to grasp the true condition. The real hope in the situation is that the time will arrive when the great middle class of the country will connect the increased cost of living with governmental extravagance. There are beginning to be some signs of that now. The steep rise in the price of food-stuffs and clothing is beginning to make wage earners and housewives restless and thoughtful. Once let the truth permeate that in this way they are being made to pay for the extravagance and experiments of the New Deal and they will send a Congress to Washington so strong for economy that even the President will not be able to prevent drastic action.

BOUDAH-STEFFANELLI BOUT FOR THE WIND-UP

Match-maker Sammy Moffo who is booking the amateur boxing show for the St. Ann's Arena Monday night, last night announced that he has been fortunate in securing the William Boudah-Mike Steffanelli bout for the wind-up of the card. Boudah and Steffanelli fought in Philadelphia several weeks ago in a thrilling bout which had the spectators on the edge of their seats throughout.

Boudah fought here a month ago, being beaten by Sammy Sindora, St. Ann's. Previous to this bout he had kayeod Sindora in a bout held in Wilmington. Since then he has been winning regularly and is a favorite to cop the Eastern district 147 pound championship.

Other bouts okayed by the Middle Atlantic district of the A. A. U. include: Tally Sclara and Orlando Spino; Joseph Ferrara and Tommy Gibbons; Carl Spinnelli and Carmello DePasquale; Johnny Raccagno and Joe Bills.

Tickets are on sale at the St. Ann's club-house and can be secured by phoning 9934.

ed concerning state and national affairs. They pointed out also that members of the grange receive much assistance through lecturers who are constantly being supplied with valuable material. It was stated also that during the literary programs of the grange the members are taught to make extemporaneous addresses. Not only the men, but also the women, it was said, are assisted educationally by the activities of the Agricultural Extension Association.

Another question discussed at the meeting last evening was "What does a tourist most enjoy seeing along the highway?" This was discussed by Dr. H. C. Terry and several other members. Dr. Terry said he believes most motorists enjoy seeing good farms with neat buildings. He spoke particularly of some small, but very attractive towns to be found while motoring through this State.

Jacob Hibbs, who took up the discussion, said the scenery in the mountains appeals to him the most. He added that fruit stands along the highways often are very attractive. One member from the western part of the county said the herds of cattle seem to indicate the prosperity of the sections in which they are to be found. Another, assuming a rather humorous vein, stated that there are times when a gasoline station looks good to the tourist.

During the roll call the members responded to the question, "What advantages has a one-story bungalow over a three-story house?" Most of the members seemed to be in favor of the latter, although several outstanding features of the bungalows were listed.

Readings were given by May E. Newbold, Georgianna Thompson, Berna Terry and Mrs. Henry C. Pickering. An interesting account of the meeting of Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, held at Fallsington last Wednesday was given by Edwin Ridge and May E. Newbold. Mollie Pickering contributed to the program with a musical stunt and during the social hour refreshments were served.

First and second degrees will be conferred upon a class of candidates at the next meeting which will be held in the Friends' meeting house in Langhorne on Wednesday evening, September 22.

The Great Game of Politics

time the note of alarm is sounded it is more serious and more justified. To the average citizen, however, the unbalanced budget has become a routine affair to which he is thoroughly accustomed. While he cannot help absorb the fact that the debt is higher and the deficit deeper than before, it seems old stuff to him and the risks are obscured by other and more interesting things.

NEVERTHELESS, it seems important to present the facts about the Federal financial situation as often and as clearly as possible in the hope that soon or late the true significance will sink into the so-called public mind and a public sentiment be created that will prevent us from going over the brink. It is the only thing that will. At the beginning of the last session of Congress Mr. Roosevelt made a particularly optimistic statement, a specially strong declaration for economy. The time had come, he said, for retrenchment. In the current fiscal year, he said, we would achieve an approximate balance of the budget and in the next fiscal year—the one we now are in—we would achieve an actual balance. He presented, in detail, the figures to show that this would be done. Business all over the country responded hopefully to this Presidential note and even more so to the stirring statement of Mr. McPherson Eccles, head of the Federal Reserve Board, and one of the earliest advocates of the spending
